

Authorized Provider Program

What it is

An Authorized Provider is a company or organization that has an American Red Cross-trained instructor who can provide cost-effective health and safety programs in-house.

By becoming an authorized provider, you can build your own training team to teach courses to employees, clients or members whenever and wherever you want.

How it works

The Red Cross works with your employees or members to train as instructors, providing them with the same background and expertise enjoyed by the Red Cross' own highly-skilled instructors.

Your employees then become the trainers for their coworkers, clients or peers. We will handle the administrative aspects of your training by processing all course records, maintaining your records for five years and issuing your certifications.

By becoming an Authorized Provider your company or organization can address regulatory issues specific to your business or industry and create in-house experts who are familiar with your specific emergency procedures and equipment. Our programs allow you to train large groups cost-effectively and at your convenience.

Benefits of the Authorized Provider Program

- Your employees or members become in-house safety experts
- You can schedule training courses for the times and locations convenient for your business or organization
- OSHA-compliant training programs and certifications
- Red Cross handles the administrative aspects of training
- Cost-effective, efficient way of training large numbers of employees, clients or members
